"Tipping" in Europe.
According to immemorial usage, European servants are entitled to tips as an assured part of their income. At the hotels the theory is that the land-lord furnishes a guest a private room and the use of the public rooms, heat and light, food and dishes, but not menial service. For convenience he keeps at hand a corps of servants who will respond to the guest's summons, but at his expense. In old times travelers were attended by their own servants to wait on them. The modern custom echoes the ancient. The traveler no longer carries with him a retinue of servants, because he can hire temporarily those of the landlady. The customary fees are the payment. To avoid feeling really to cheat the servants, who need all they can get, heavy-tips are given. A chambermaid at the best hotels receives as wages only about $2 a month. Tipping servants in America is a regrettable imitation of the European custom without its resting on the reasonable basis of the foreign institutions.—Travel Magazine.

Told Who He Was.
The game warden of Colorado was walking out in the mountains on one occasion when he met a hunter with his gun. The official suggested that that ought to be a good country for hunting. "It certainly is," said the hunter proudly. "I killed one of the finest bucks yesterday I ever saw, and he weighed over two hundred." It was the season when deer may not be shot without subjecting the hunter to a heavy fine. "Well, that is a fine one," said the warden, "and do you know who you are talking to?" Being assured that he did not, the official said, "Why, I am the chief game warden of Colorado." The hunter was only taken aback for a moment, when he asked, "And do you know who you are talking to?" The warden didn't know. "Well, sir," said the hunter, apparently much relieved, "you are talking to the biggest liar in the whole state of Colorado."—Kansas City Star.

The Primitive Violin.
In its primitive form the violin was a direct development of the lyre and monochord—the strings from the former and the elongated box, with its sound holes, finger board and movable bridge, from the latter. The history of the violin began with the invention of the bow some time before the thirteenth century, when the violle, or violin, used by the troubadours, made its appearance. This instrument underwent many changes until the middle of the sixteenth century, when the true violin model appeared. The primitive violin had little or no contour. It was not until the thirteenth century that the violle was scooped out at the waist. The corner blocks were added in the fifteenth century and are attributed to Germany. For nearly a century the sound holes were shifted all over the instrument before they were cut in their proper place and the bridge fixed between them.—Circle Magazine.

Two of a Kind.
A revival meeting was in progress, and Sister Jones was called upon for testimony. Being meek and humble, she said: "I do not feel as though I should stand here and give testimony. I have been a transgressor for a good many years and have only recently seen the light. I believe that my place is in a dark corner, behind the door." Brother Smith was next called upon for his testimony and, following the example set by Sister Jones, said: "I, too, have been a sinner for more than forty years, and I do not think it would be fitting for me to stand before this assembly as a model. I think my place is behind the door, by a dark corner, with Sister Jones." And he wondered why the meeting was convulsed with the laughter of those who came to pray.

Don't Whisk Your Hat.
Never use a whisk broom to clean a hat, either stiff or soft, particularly a soft hat, as it gradually removes the fine surface originally on the hat. The worst effect, however, is the wearing away of the band and binding by such rough usage. The effect is more quickly shown on the best grades of bands and binding. A fine hair brush, one of curved shape, made especially to use under the curl of the hat, is good. Best of all, however, is a thick piece of woolen cloth. Such pieces are now made in the form of pads, with a strap across the back, so that they can be held securely in the hand.—American Hatting.

Striking Originality.
"Your husband is not looking well tonight, Mrs. Rhymet."
"He isn't, and I'm not surprised at it."
"No? Has he been overworking himself?"
"It isn't that so much. It's his originality. Why, that man is struck by so many original ideas that his mind must be one mass of bruises."

Spilled.
"Publishers insist on spoiling a great many manuscripts, don't they?" said the literary young woman.
"Undoubtedly," answered the book-seller. "A lot of 'em look a heap better typewritten and tied up with a ribbon than they do in print."—Washington Star.

All That Saved Him.
"Yes, sir, he was obliged to go in the snake country, so he took a gallon of Georgia corn along with him."
"And how did he make out?"
"Splendid! Got so full and wobbled so the snakes missed him every time they struck at him!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Quick climatic changes try strong constitutions and cause, among other evils, nasal catarrh, a troublesome and offensive disorder. Sneezing and sniffing, coughing and difficulty breathing, and the drip, drip, drip of discharge into the throat—all are ended by Ely's Cream Balm. This honest remedy contains no cocaine, mercury nor other harmful ingredients. The worst cases yield to treatment in a short time. A Very Practical Christian.
A benevolent old man who lived on his farm in Iowa never refused shelter to any who might ask of him. His many friends remonstrated with him about this characteristic, knowing that there was great danger of the old man being robbed. To these remonstrances the old man replied that he believed in "practical Christianity."
"But," said one of his friends, "this seems very impractical. Suppose one of these men took it into his head to rob you one night?"
"My dear young friend," was the reply, "I bid all enter in the name of God, but I prove my belief in practical Christianity by locking up their pants during the night."

Poll Parrot as a Game Bird.
While the parrot is a bird of beautiful plumage, as a table delicacy it is not to be recommended, as I know from sad experience. My first essay at eating a parrot was attended with modified success. The bird must have been comparatively young, and after several hours' boiling became soft enough to masticate and finally swallow, leaving behind an impression that we had lunched on the sole of a rubber boot.—Arthur D. Temple in Field and Stream.

The Tip Randolph Wanted.
Can you put me in no way to become a successful rogue to an amount that may throw an air of dignity over the transaction and divert the attention of the gossipy public from the enormity of the offense to that of the sum? From a letter of John Randolph of Roanoke to Dr. John Brockebrough.

A Fighting State.
Whenever you scratch Kansas his tory you find a fight. No territory of equal size has had so much war over so many different causes. Her story in Indian fighting, gambler fighting, outlaw fighting, town site fighting and political fighting is not approached by any other portion of the west.—Outing Magazine.

Wonders of Chess.
Edwin Anthony in an article published in the Chess Players' Chronicle computed approximately that the number of ways of playing only the first ten moves on each side is 180,518, 829,100,544,000,000,000,000,000.
